March 2020 - Social Work Month (USA) - An EAPA Appreciation

The Employee Assistance Professionals Association (EAPA) recognizes the invaluable role that Social Work has played in the development of Employee Assistance services and in the EA profession. Social workers are found in every aspect of employee assistance - as direct providers, clinical supervisors and account managers, and as CEOs and founders of some of the largest EAPs in the USA.

EAPA appreciates the single largest group of professionals in employee assistance: Social Workers. The application of your training to the work of EA is important. YOU are important.

We also thank all of our social worker EAPA members and holders of the Certified Employee Assistance Professional (CEAP) credential for all you do, every day. Many of you have volunteered your time to serve as chapter officers, to help attendees at EAPA conferences, and on the EAPA Board of Directors and Certification Commission. The Association is the beneficiary of your commitment and work on behalf of EAPA.

If you have colleagues who are special to you, tell them during Social Work Month. And, if you are a Social Worker, give yourself a pat on the back!
